From the very start the Board decided that this year's Cauldron would be the best one ever published. This decision we hasten to admit was probably not original with us. Other Boards which have preceded us no doubt entertained similar ideas and have enjoyed varying degrees of success We hoped to preserve the best material from past Cauldrons; and yet we wanted Volume XIX to be different Being different, of course, is not enough We have tried not to upset any of the accepted Cauldron tradition, but rather, to give this Cauldron added life through a new interpretation and presentation. We like now to think that we have been at least moderately successful. Just how near we have come to attaining this end is now up to you.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

A yearbook is the product of knowledge, experience, patience, taste, argument and prayer. We, the Board, have amply taken care of the arguments and prayers. Without the other essential elements a yearbook would be a sorry thing indeed. For supplying these other requisites and for immeasurably lightening our task, we owe a major debt to Prof. Everett C. Marston, who has given so generously of his time in the preparation of this book. His years spent as Faculty Adviser to the Cauldron have given him a thorough knowledge of its problems and a facility for dealing with them.

For his expert advice and personal interest in the design and layout of this volume we are deeply grateful to Mr. Russell C. Knight of the Stobbs Press.

We are indebted also to the Messrs. Waid of Waid Studios for their splendid cooperation and photographic advice.

We sincerely appreciate the assistance given us by the Cauldron Junior Staff, the Student Activities Department, the Press Bureau, and the many other offices and individuals in the University who have contributed to the publishing of Volume XIX.

Dedicated to . . .

Frank Palmer Speare, the first President of Northeastern University, will retire from that office and from active duty on June 30, 1940, after forty-two years of service.

Because of his vision, his leadership, his courage, and his enthusiasm, there has grown up a university, dedicated to the purpose of providing exceptional educational opportunities for ambitious young men.

Over this long period of years, thousands of alumni have gone forth from the University, adequately prepared for positions of responsibility. Many of them are now leaders in widely varying fields of public and private enterprise. Great is their indebtedness and that of the community to the founder and head of the institution. It is with sincere appreciation that the members of the Class of 1940 dedicate this volume of the Cauldron to Dr. Frank Palmer Speare.

PROF. HENRY BISSELL ALVORD

On April 20, 1939, Northeastern University suffered the loss of one of its older faculty members. Professor Henry Bissell Alvord, for nineteen years a member of the Civil Engineering Department and for eighteen years its head, passed away after an illness of only a few weeks.

Professor Alvord was graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1907, and remained there as an assistant in the Department of Civil Engineering for three years. Following this term of service, he became instructor and then Assistant Professor of Civil Engineering at Bowdoin College. In June, 1914, he accepted a position with the Aberthaw Construction Company, which he left in 1919 to join the faculty of Wentworth Institute. He was appointed Assistant Professor of Civil Engineering at Northeastern University in 1920. A year later he was made Professor of Civil Engineering and Chairman of the Department.

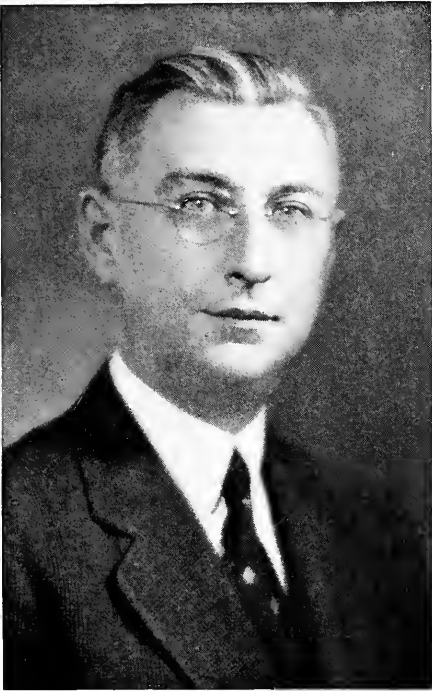

Professor Alvord was known to us all as a fine and kindly gentleman. His passing is a loss to students and faculty alike.

CLASS HISTORY

FEW AMONG US will ever forget our first day at Northeastern. We walked around with attempted expressions of worldliness, but the straw in our hair and our freshman caps betrayed us. Upperclassmen forever delighted in reminding us of our lowly status with, "Hello, Froshie!" We bore the stigma for the year, but had our revenge when the class of '41 arrived and we heckled them as we had been heckled before them.

We raked the Student Activities Department over the coals the day it issued our first activities cards. Passport photos were gems of artistry in comparison. But whenever we felt wronged at the way in which we were portrayed, we merely stole a glance at a fellow student's card and laughed ourselves sick.

As sophomores we learned what the co-op system was all about. There were as many different jobs as there were students. Assembly, inspection, foundry work, testing, maintenance, selling, accounting, drafting—each one had his own startling experiences to tell. Some of us could never stomach theme writing—and work reports raised havoc with our digestion.

We started building activity records. The gridiron, the diamond, the board-track and the rest saw us do and die. We were first-string quarter and we carried the bass drum. The literarily-inclined joined the News and dreamed of by-lines, or simply wrote reform letters to the editor. Professional societies, musical organizations, and clubs demanded our talents, and we were there in varying degrees with the supply. How well we performed is now on the records to acclaim or ——— us.

Then every year, along toward the end of April, when the croci began pushing their way out of the turf, we grew listless.

We attributed the feeling to a number of causes—the smell in the air, baseball, the turning of a young man’s fancy, or an overdose of sulphur plus. But regardless of the reason, as soon as the old Winter thawed out of our joints, the desire to just loaf gained the upperhand. So we yawned in each other’s faces, waited for the fever to pass, and prayed that the warning grades would not get home to father.

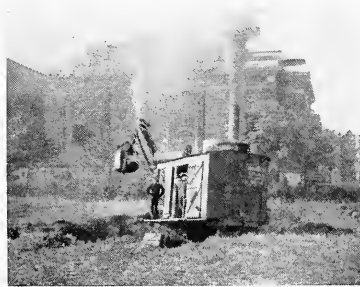

Culture came to college with the class of 1940 with the inauguration of the College of Liberal Arts. When the Administration decided that all good Engineers must dabble a bit in Shakespeare, Art, History, and related subjects, Northeastern had just about all the culture it could stand. However, even engineers must have some background, some culture, and be gentlemen with drawing-room graces.

The L.A.’s, looked upon with suspicion at first by Engineers and B.A.’s alike, proved to be decent fellows, and soon all curricula were on speaking terms.

The social committee outdid itself in our Middler year. A “Blowout,” that’s what they called it then, was run in Bates Hall for each Division, and to cap off the season a Middler Shuffle blossomed in the Touraine.

Then one morning in the Fall of ’37 we were mildly excited to see a mess of hissing, grunting machinery steam-shovelling its way into the bowels of Back Bay.

The oft heralded building program had given birth. The days were counted by the number of truckloads of dirt removed, the yards of concrete poured, and the tons of girders riveted. Bricks, plaster, pipes, glass. Wire and wood and work and waiting.

The September classes filed in and filled their nostrils with the newness of it all, then settled down to let it wear off. Now and then someone would draw a comparison between the new West Building and the rambling Huntington Building. It was the hardy student among us who could remain healthy after a session in 52-H, the room with no windows and the ventilator that always stuck.

Annually we dug up the bookstore problem, demanded that the Student Council get to work. Great charges of powder were set off, lovely flashes were seen, but no one was ever hurt. The latest song hit would catch our attention and the bookstore would be forgotten—until the next year.

A parade of nickels kept the record-player in the Husky Hut red-hot, and more than one case of indigestion resulted from trying to eat and leap at the same time. There was a continual debate as to just how many sandwiches a Husky Hut manufacturer could whip into shape from one loaf of bread.

The out-door gym always provided entertainment. We could watch the boys getting in trim for coming meets, and we never failed to lend encouragement by telling them how terrible they looked. They paid us but little attention and doggedly continued to hurl javelins at one another.

People had been eating fish for years and no one grew excited about the fact until a lad from Harvard decided to swallow the things raw. In the few short weeks following its well-publicized debut, fish-gulping invaded every campus in the country. A Northeastern sophomore, with all the school spirit he could muster, put away 36 outraged gold-fish, but succeeded in holding the record for only one hour. Some glutton from M. I. T. swallowed 40.

The awesome, the spectacular, the beautiful, the lavish Junior Prom was upon us. We had been brought up to view this occasion with a special reverence, and we were properly pious. We mortgaged our future and our room-mate's future to attend, but it was worth it.

Who among us will ever forget Mass Meetings? It was at these Wednesday noon-time gatherings in Jordan Hall that we learned to eat our lunches undetected even in the front rows. Some of us studied or read the News, while others slept in the darkened rear of the hall. Then, too, on occasion we absented ourselves from these functions for any good reason that came to mind at the time. It was all part of the fun. But we did have the opportunity to hear many learned men give their views, experiences, and solutions to many of the world's and our problems; and we profited through our attendance.

We will always be indebted to the Student Union for the noon-hour movie programs and the opportunity to hiss and cheer the screen stars of the old silent days.

The depression that started in '29 was still rattling around, ten years old. We had grown almost immune to it even as freshmen. One of us heatedly maintained that the country was going to the dogs. A glance at the parking area filled to overflowing at nine in the morning told a very different story. And most of the cars had radios, too.

We were all back again in September—Seniors. Somehow we did not feel that we had changed over the four years that had passed. Suspicions of advancing age were felt now and then when someone remarked that our foreheads were getting higher, or when we were introduced to a fellow-senior's fiancée. It being leap-year we, who had always strained at the leash in the Eternal Pursuit, decided to run the other way.

September found a second World War threatening in Europe. An ex-corporal with a trick moustache had reached too far in to the fire and had singed his shirt-sleeves. Nasty words and nastier bombs were hurled. Munich, munitions, mobilization, annihilation drifted about the campus and provided topics for lively debate. As Seniors we wondered how long it would last and what the outcome would be. Would we become involved? Collegiate polls assured the nation that we wanted nothing to do with the crash and bang over there. We had jobs to think about and wives and families and grocery bills. We weren't going to graduate into a trench. . . .

Not only that, but we had Senior Week to consider. And the amount of class dues we owed. Class rings, class pictures . . . important things. Even the habitually passive Senior fixed us with his good eye and demanded to be heard. Officers and committeemen awoke to find more than ordinary interest centered around them. The class grew encouragingly panicky when informed at the first class meeting that the treasury nest-egg amounted to a scrawny $153.00 and a few left-over charms from the Junior Prom. Figures rarely bothered us but this was no mere figure; this was a threat to our Senior Week. Choking dust rose from many bill-folds as the class rallied to increase the treasury to $1,843.00 by the end of March.

And in the background the Cauldron Board droned monotonously threatening, begging the class to "go down and get yer pitcher took."

One morning we awoke to find that the rather mild 1939-40 Winter had done a complete about face and dumped the biggest snowstorm (since the Portland went down) right into our laps. To say that we were caught with our shoes off would be a masterpiece of understatement. But by the time the snow thawed we found the end of the year practically in our hair. Studies gave way to the more important task of job-hunting. Application blanks, letter writing, and interviews kept our attention, while we chewed mental fingernails and pondered the future.

With Commencement but a short time away, we stopped for a moment and reviewed the five years that sped past. Somehow or other, the exclamations of "boy!

we made it," seemed a bit hollow. Quietly we admitted in our own circle that all the sweat and worry was worth it, that the fun we had and the friends we made more than compensated for the burdens of the moment. The realization that never again, perhaps, would we be together as a group threw a bit of cold water on our enthusiasm to graduate.

Ten years or forty years from now what will Northeastern think of us? We know there are good men among us. Probably the only real test of our worth, the only true sign that our influence in the world has been felt, is in what the Class of 1980 will say about us. What, then, shall we give them to talk about?

T. E. M.

Prof. George H. Meserve, Jr.

WHEN AS FRESHMEN we were introduced to a startling array of new courses, we were at first a bit bewildered. The Engineers among us came through the first year, however, with the firm conviction that any subject could be readily absorbed if it was attractively presented. Prof. George H. Meserve's courses in Graphics and Descriptive Geometry had proven this quite conclusively.

The fact that he won for himself an eager following was borne out by these same Engineers when, on returning as sophomores, they selected, almost to a man, his History of Art course.

If our interests were of an extra-curricular nature—art, architecture, photography, tropical fish—we found in Prof. Meserve a willing listener and a competent instructor. Others among us who have worked as class officers and committeemen readily appreciate the earnest and sympathetic manner in which he has guided the Class through these short years. He has ever encouraged the Class to choose its own course of action, preferring to remain behind the scenes, always on call, but in a purely advisory capacity.

A popular teacher, a wise counselor, a real friend, Prof. George H. Meserve has more than earned our sincere thanks for his fine work as Adviser to our Class, the Class of 1940.

THE SENATE is the honor society of the College of Engineering of Northeastern University. Election to this society is based primarily upon scholastic achievement and character, with personality and participation in extra-curricular activities having a supporting but secondary part in the consideration for candidacy. Consequently, its members regard their election to the society as the highest honor that could be bestowed upon them.

The Senate is the oldest of the honorary societies at Northeastern, having been established in 1921 under the leadership of the late Professor George F. Ashley. Since that time, it has been self-perpetuating, honoring approximately fifteen students in each graduating class with membership.

Its outstanding objective is to foster and promote high scholarship and to further intellectual interests among the engineering students at Northeastern. This objective is carried out by means of periodic meetings of a professional and social nature during the year, and the awarding of an annual scholarship to the highest ranking student of each Freshman Class.

THE SIGMA SOCIETY is the honor society of the College of Business Administration. Candidates who have met the high scholastic requirements laid down by the constitution of the society are accepted into membership by vote of the current undergraduate members. Highest honors in the College of Business Administration are conferred by election to this society.

The Sigma Society was founded in 1925 by Dean Turner F. Garner, the Dean of the College of Business Administration. Originally known as Sigma Delta Epsilon, the society has adopted the more common name. Each year about ten students in each graduating class are honored with membership.

Its function is to encourage and reward scholastic attainment among the students of business administration at the University. A feature of this objective is the granting of a scholarship each year to the highest ranking business administration student of the Freshman Class.

THE ACADEMY is the honor society of the College of Liberal Arts. As in its brother organizations in the Colleges of Engineering and Business Administration, election to this society is based upon high standards of scholarship and character. Election to this honorary body is a sign of distinctive achievement.

The Academy, the youngest of the honor societies, was founded in 1937. Its membership is as yet small, but is increasing with the growth of the College of Liberal Arts. Its constitutional standards are to be kept intact, however, even though the membership remain small.

The purpose of the Academy is to promote scholarly activities among the students of liberal arts and sciences. Part of this objective is stimulated by the offering of an annual scholarship to the highest ranking Freshman in the College of Liberal Arts.

ASTRONOMY

"Step right up and look at the stars—but you better make your own telescope" would probably be a good slogan for the Astronomy Club; for the making of astronomical instruments is the principal concern of this group, with a secondary purpose of giving general instruction about the heavenly bodies to its members.

The first task of every new member is to make a small Newtonian telescope, the so-called "poor man's telescope." The beginner is thus initiated into the art of grinding a telescope mirror without undue loss if a mistake is made. The second step is the grinding of a six-inch Pyrex mirror, which when finished will enable the user to see the rings on Saturn, the moons of Jupiter, blazing nebulae, and other celestial wonders.

The club's work is not restricted to telescopes. Some of the members have constructed a Foucault testing apparatus which can determine the accuracy of a mirror to one-millionth of an inch. The latest achievement of the group is the construction of an apparatus for coating mirrors with an extremely thin layer of aluminum instead of silver.

Raymond B. Hurley '41 is president of the club; Herbert C. Alexander '41, vice-president; Hurire E. Melkonian '41, secretary; and Robert W. Pierson, treasurer. Prof. C. David Johnson has been adviser to the Astronomy Club since its inception.

AVIATION "CPT"

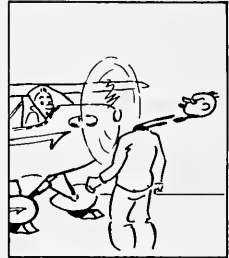

"Hello, Pilot. How many hours have you got?" Since October, 1939, this has been the official greeting of thirty Northeastern students, members of the Civilian Pilot Training Program sponsored by the Civil Aeronautics Authority. Students outside of this special group are entertained with the exploits of these future pilots and in a language colored by their study of aeronautical subjects and hangar talk picked up at the airport.

When Prof. Winthrop E. Nightingale, director of the program at Northeastern, announced that students were to be selected for ground school and flight training, every air-minded student in school grabbed at the opportunity.

The chosen thirty were given a thorough physical exam by a medical examiner and were immediately launched on a ground school course covering 72 hours, four hours per week. The course, given by Mr. William N. Batty of E. W. Wiggins Airways, Inc., included such subjects as: navigation, meteorology, theory of flight, engines, instruments, radio aids, history of aviation, and civil air regulations. The seniors who averaged 90 percent or over for the full course were: Joseph M. Devine, Thomas E. McMahan, George H. Baillie, Alfred Keck, James H. Nye, Robert W. Trotter, and Robert O. Hallen. The class average was 86 percent.

Twenty students fly at the East Boston Airport, while the other ten fly at the Boston Metropolitan Airport in Norwood. The flight course includes such maneuvers as stalls, spins, slips; precision work and cross-country flights are included, also. During the winter months some of the group experienced the novelty of flying ski-equipped Piper Cub training planes.

By the end of June it is expected that the thirty will have fully qualified for their private pilot licenses.

BANKING AND FINANCE

With a hypothetical fund of a million dollars to invest in securities in the stock and bond markets, the members of the Banking and Finance Society have an opportunity to apply some of the theories of the classroom to the actual conditions in the business world.

Although the Middler members of the group do all the investing, they base their selections on reports on several of the important industries and on weekly resumes of financial conditions made by the upperclass members of the society. These are followed by informal discussions of the various factors which influence the current market.

As a supplement to its weekly meetings the society has had one special evening meeting during each ten-week period. Outside speakers from the financial world are invited to speak on some phase of their work.

The officers of the Banking and Finance Society are: Thomas M. McAuley '41, president; James H. Cullen '41, vice-president; and Charles R. Patterson '42, secretary-treasurer. Prof. John W. Tuhill is the adviser.

Cultural organizations, based on the pursuit and development of hobbies while in college, fill a definite need among future professional men. Such an organization is the Camera Club, formed five years ago under the guidance of Prof. George H. Meserve.

With participation in several exhibitions and contests as incentive, the Camera Club promotes an interest in photography among its members. Through its educational program of lectures and instruction it gives the beginner an opportunity to learn fundamentals and at the same time offers a chance for the more advanced students to learn new and better methods in photographic technique.

The members of the executive committee of the Camera Club for the past year were: John D. Lane '43, Division A chairman; Martin B. Russell '42, Division B chairman; and Clifford B. Goodie '43, Paul S. Jennings '41, Richard D. Storchfield '44, and William H. Watt '41.

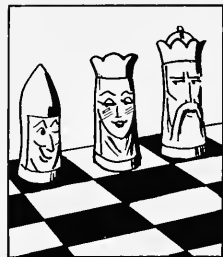

CHESS

"No, Junior, those men are not wooden Indians, they're just playing chess." Dull as it seems to the uninitiated, chess is a fascinating game to those who understand it.

Northeastern's Chess Club was formed five years ago to give students an opportunity to learn the game from scratch or to improve their techniques in competition with other students. The club holds yearly tournaments among its members to determine the top-ranking players. In past years the best men have engaged in inter-collegiate competition.

If anyone feels astute and hungry at the same time, Prof. Joseph A. Coolidge, the club's adviser, has a standing offer of a free meal to the student who wins two games in a row from him. Many enthusiasts have gone hungry, for "Joe" is rarely beaten twice in succession.

The two presidents of the club, one in each division, are Joseph I. Keesan '40 and Mark Sigismund '41; the secretary-treasurers, Norman S. Silsby '42 and Gerard R. DeNapoli '41.

DEBATING

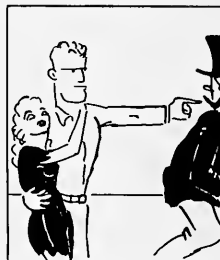

The activities of the Debating Club this year have been devoted to laying the foundation for the development of a society which in the future may become a vigorous participant in intercollegiate debates. The procedure followed has been that of training men through the medium of intra-club debates. By this means members have developed proficiency in expressing themselves clearly before an audience while at the same time conveying the clearest interpretation of their ideas to their opponents.

This year, at the nineteenth annual speaking contest in Jordan Hall, Elias B. Hiltunen, '40, was awarded first prize for his address, "Fate of Finland." Fred M. Cusick, '42, won second prize with "Business Comes to Life;" Charles E. Gates, '42, was third with "Taxation Without Information;" George A. Shanker, '41, was fourth with "The Quality of Mercy Is Strained." Dean Harold W. Melvin presented awards of forty, thirty, twenty and ten dollars respectively to the winners.

Activities in both divisions are planned by a single council with Samuel J. D'Agata, '41, as chairman and Mr. Franklin Norvish as adviser.

DRAMATIC

The Dramatic Club made great advances in its work this year under the new name of the "Spotlighters." The appearance of the versatile Walter Colmes '40LA sparked the organization into greater activity and the presentation of the mystery-comedy "Post Road" was the result. Under the direction of Colmes the staging of this two-acter, with Dr. Paul E. Reynolds and Mr. Sidney Bloomfield representing the faculty in the cast, was successfully presented for two nights at the Peabody Playhouse. This production was well staged and well directed by the students who learned a great deal about staging, directing, and acting from this performance.

For the past few seasons the Dramatic Club has not presented any large productions and the club members hope to continue next year where they left off this year and establish a precedent of producing at least one full-length play a year.

Simmons College collaborated with the "Spotlighters" in presenting "Post Road" by supplying girls for the play. They also participated in a one act play, "The Valiant," which the club presented in March. Dancing in Bates Hall followed the presentation of the play.

Louis Michaelson was the president of this year's organization and Leo Jerzyk served as secretary-treasurer. Dr. Paul E. Reynolds acted in an advisory capacity.

FRESHMAN HAND BOOK

Foolish indeed is the mariner who sets out to cross an unknown sea without first mastering the rudiments of navigation. Foolish too is the bewildered Frosh who sets forth on his college career without the aid of a Freshman Handbook in charting his course. Many are the pitfalls which lie in wait for the newcomer who does not have available a ready source of information on Freshman regulations, activities, organizations, and other general data.

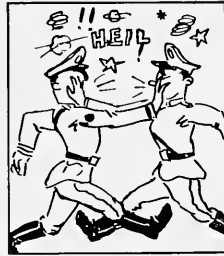

Organized and distributed by the Student Union, the Freshman Handbook was edited this year by Robert J. Anderson '40 with Professor Waldemar S. McGuire acting as adviser.

GERMAN LANGUAGE

Almost everyone cherishes a desire to be "Bohemian" in cultural tastes, choice of food, mode of living, and knowledge of foreign languages. The German Language Club helps students in fulfilling this desire by giving them an opportunity to use their knowledge of German in ways that give them entertainment and a greater appreciation of foreign customs and literature.

The members of the club enjoy themselves at evening meetings while gaining a better understanding and speaking acquaintance with the German language. At semi-monthly meetings moving pictures are shown, recordings played, and German plays are presented by the club members. Although this group is only a year old, it has grown steadily under the guidance of Prof. Charles F. Barnason. It is an attractive organization in that it offers an opportunity for cultural development in a way that is entertaining. A group of this sort helps to develop lasting values and tastes in undergraduates.

Julius J. Maccini '40 and Bernard N. Falkoff '40 are the two presidents of the club; Bernard Pomerantz '41, the secretary; Benjamin Levin '40, the treasurer; and William Wallace '41, the chairman of the social committee.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Under the capable guiding hand of Professor Hamilton the International Relations Club has progressed with great strides. The principal purpose of the club is to study and discuss those national and international problems and events which vitally concern our American economic life and institutions.

A new plan for conducting meetings was adopted this year whereby four men were chosen to prepare talks on a particularly timely economic subject. After these men gave their speeches there followed a period of an hour devoted to a question and discussion session.

Activities of the club were not confined to the limits of intra-club debates. Representatives were sent by the I. R. C. to several intercollegiate conferences at New England colleges. The procedure followed at these conferences is much the same as that used in the new discussion method of the Northeastern society.

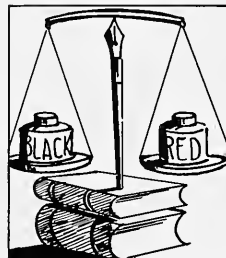

The keen interest in economic relations, the "boiling pot" of European economic activity, and the chance to adapt certain theories learned in the classroom were the main causes for the success of the club this year.

LAW AND ACCOUNTING

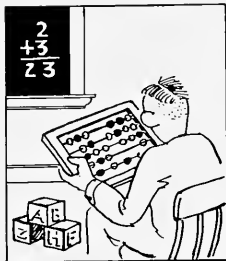

Discussion meetings pertaining to some phases of law and accounting practices, with special emphasis on problems which might be faced by the young accountant, are the main interests of the Law and Accounting Club.

In the meetings this year students have given talks on several accounting problems, discussions were held on several famous law cases, and Prof. Alfred D'Alessandro, the club's adviser, devoted two meetings to Savings Bank Life Insurance. The topics of interest covered a wide scope and resulted in general participation by all members.

The officers of the club are: Donald R. Sellers '41 and Kenneth Brierly '42, presidents; Robert F. Reid '42 and Robert D. McNally '42, vice-presidents; William J. Cobb '42 and Arne F. Lofgren '42, secretary-treasurers.

MATHEMATICS

Most important of the activities of the Mathematics Club during the 1939-40 season was the meeting at Northeastern of the Greater Boston Mathematics Clubs Association, which about 120 students from eight colleges attended. Prof. Elmer E. Haskins is permanent faculty adviser of this intercollegiate group, now in its second year, and James G. Cassanos, '40, was president of the association for the past year.

The increased activity of the Mathematics Club this past year is due, in part, to the fact that for the first time in its history freshmen were admitted to membership. The club, founded in 1931, is one of the oldest non-professional societies in the university.

Cassanos was president of the Mathematics Club; the other officers were: Gregory Nazarian, '43, vice-president; Abraham E. Landsman, '41, secretary; and Edward Segal, '40, treasurer. The members of the executive committee were: Bernard J. Gaffney, '40, Hans V. Bach, '44, and Edwin Burger, '44. Professor Haskins was adviser.

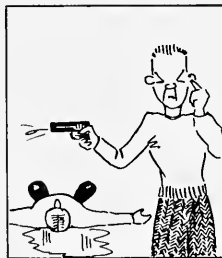

RADIO "WIKBN"

The new spacious quarters of the Radio Club, in the Penthouse of the West Building, seem to be an incentive for the club members to make station WIKBN one of the foremost amateur stations in New England. This year the control system has been completely remodeled and several new pieces of equipment have been purchased. With the new control system an operator can switch from the receiver to the transmitter or to a telephone connection from a single panel control board. The transmitting equipment has been greatly improved and in tests has been very strong. Several calls from Northeastern have been picked up clearly as far away as the West Indies.

The interest in the Radio Club for the current year is shown by the large increase in members who are working for their amateur licenses. At present twenty out of the fifty members are licensed and have their own call letters.

Through contacts with other universities the Radio Club performs a service in promoting intercollegiate goodwill and gives its members an opportunity to make friends throughout the nation. James H. Nye, '40, and Louis H. Schall, '42, are the presidents; William F. Richardson, '40, and Walter M. Chase, Jr., '43, are the secretary-treasurers. Dr. Carl F. Muckenhoupt is the faculty adviser.

RIFLE

Pure competition, uncolored by cheering spectators or hallyhoo publicity is the lifeblood of the Rifle Club. Under the guidance of Mr. Belyea this organization carries on an active program which aims at maintaining a successful varsity Rifle Team which enters intercollegiate competition.

This past year the Rifle Team became affiliated with the New England College Rifle League. Although winning only five of its fifteen matches, the team was able to win fourth place in the League shoulder to shoulder tournament which was held at the end of the season with ten teams competing.

The president of the Rifle Club during this year was Robert E. Chaffee '41. The following men served in the other executive positions: Rupert Grahn '44, vice-president; Albert Goodwin '41, secretary-treasurer; Vernon Carpenter '42, ordnance officer; and Hugh Simms '42, publicity. Mr. Byard C. Belyea is the adviser.

UNIVERSITY WITS

The past winter an embryo organization appeared in Northeastern but as yet it has not gathered sufficient protoplasm unto itself to become outstanding among the other amoebas. Nevertheless, the University Wits are cultured.

The literati of the University assembled on two occasions at the Colonial Kitchens on Beacon Hill for supper meetings. At the first meeting John Ritchey, writer for the Christian Science Monitor, spoke to the group on the subject, "What is Writing?" The second meeting consisted of a lecture by Mr. Kentza, curator of the Widener Library of Harvard Library. He spoke on the essence of poetry to a fascinated audience, who marveled at the speaker's knowledge of literature.

Dean Melvin procured these two outstanding speakers who led the group in sparkling discussions of the art of writing. Next year the Wits will attempt a more varied program, but the meetings this year were very successful and enlightening for a starter.

The members of the group included Raymond V. Johnson '40LA, Hartley F. Hutchins, '40LA, Harold B. Morris '40LA, James G. Cassanos '40LA, H. Russell Austin '43LA, William R. Ziegler '41LA, W. Bradley Corson '40BA, Richard N. Peale '40LA, Simon Nathenson '42LA, and Charles A. Tracy '40LA.

YACHTING

A strong smell of the sea, tarred hemp, and old grog wafted across the campus October 3, 1939, as a large group of students and faculty gathered in true regatta spirit to launch a new Northeastern University Yacht Club. Several attempts had been made in the past to build up a club, but so many problems arose that these early efforts were beached.

However, it was inevitable that the yachting blood coursing through the University should find a common channel. Sixty-five active members, half of whom own their own boats, attest to this fact. The club has taken steps to enter the Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Association, an organization made up of such colleges as M. I. T., Harvard, Yale, Navy, and others. A drive is already under way to procure boats to further strengthen the club's position.

A wide variety of informal meetings, rocking-chair sessions to lectures by well-known yachtsmen, keeps up a lively interest during the winter months. An insignia, a black "N" interlocked with an arrow pointing northeast against a red and white background, has been designed and adopted after much deliberation.

The officers this year are: Raymond O. Dion '41, commodore; Carter Fillebrown '41, vice-commodore; Arthur F. Hartford '41, secretary-treasurer; George N. Dexter '44, ass't. secretary-treasurer. Prof. Rudolf O. Oberg is adviser to the club.

A stride forward in the department of Civil Engineering was made this year with the formation of the new student organization, the Northeastern University Civil Engineering Society. Membership in the society embraces both the local Boston Society of Civil Engineers and the Northeastern Section of the national American Society of Civil Engineers.

Activities include meetings to which local practising engineers and other prominent men bring their knowledge and experiences to the students, and the presentation of papers by the members themselves on some phase of their cooperative work.

Beginning in 1939 the student chapter has sent delegates to the Annual Conference of chapters of the American Society of Civil Engineers, at which activities are compared, papers are presented, and engineering students are brought together by their mutual interest.

This chapter was admitted as an associate member in 1939, and in March of 1940 was formally inducted as an active member at a banquet held at Northeastern and attended by delegates from seven neighboring colleges. Student members also attended the Conference at Worcester Polytechnic Institute in April 1940.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers is a professional society organized to bring members together for discussion and observation of professional objectives. These many objectives are integral parts of mechanical engineering, both theoretical and practical. Founded in 1880, the organization now has a membership of 19,300. Its many benefits, such as Student Branch support, student loan funds, cash prizes for papers, and use of the Engineering Societies Library, are open to all members of the Student Branches. The type of work which has been done in the past, and is still being done, by the A.S.M.E. is best exemplified in the research and standardization projects such as the A.S.M.E. Boiler Construction Code. Its publications, which members receive regularly, are the Transactions, "Mechanical Engineering," which the student members receive, the "Mechanical Catalog," Society Records, and Membership List.

Research is the lifeblood of science. The Northeastern chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers in recognizing this fact encourages members of the organization to do original work in the field of electrical engineering. Papers on this type of work are presented at weekly meetings. The best paper selected from those presented during the year is then eligible to compete with papers from other colleges in New England and New York state for a regional prize.

Through affiliation with their student chapter men of Northeastern come to realize early in their college careers that they belong to a large body of men whose aim it is to improve and develop the science of electrical engineering. Membership entitles the men to benefit from employment and library service, to hear lectures by outstanding men in the profession, and to participate in plant inspection trips.

Meetings of the chapter are planned by an executive committee composed of the chapter officers and two men from each division of each class.

The Student Chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers has now completed three successful years as a Northeastern organization. Each year there has been a marked increase in membership. Membership is open to all Chemical Engineering upperclassmen while Liberal Arts students may become associate members.

Meetings are held at monthly intervals during the school year. The speakers at each meeting are guests from some particular industrial concern and cover a wide range of topics. The most popular event of the year is the annual banquet at which the officers for the coming year are announced. The speaker at the annual banquet usually is from a non-chemical field. Also, at the banquet, an award of a pin and a certificate of merit is given by the parent society to the chemical engineering student with the highest scholastic average during his first two years of school.

The business of the society is carried on at council meetings. The council consists of the officers of the society and a Division A and Division B representative from each class.

At the annual Open House of Northeastern, the members of the society have charge of the exhibits and experiments shown in the Chemical Engineering Laboratory.

The Northeastern chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management is the professional society serving the interests of students studying Industrial Engineering. Organized for the purpose of advancing the theory of management, the society is chiefly interested in those problems dealing with production and administration in industry.

Specific activities of the student branch of the S. A. M. include monthly meetings, round-table conferences on such subjects as time and motion study, personnel, production control, and job evaluation. Added features are the student chapter conferences and the R. I. Rees annual essay contest in which a prize of $50.00 is awarded for the best paper on some management subject.

The newest addition to the roster of professional societies at Northeastern is the student chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management organized in the College of Business Administration. Although similar to the chapter of this organization which exists in the engineering school, this new group will fill a definite need in dealing with management as it concerns the non-technical business man.

The three-fold purpose in organizing this chapter is briefly as follows:

1. To provide Business Administration students with a branch of a national society in a field where there is no such organization at present.
2. To extend to Business Administration students the privilege of attending as student members the regular meeting of the Boston Chapter of S. A. M.
3. To establish in the College of Business Administration a branch of the business professional society most frequently found in other colleges of business administration.

Five years ago a handful of stalwart members of the first entering class in the College of Liberal Arts decided to major in chemistry. They found themselves a small minority surrounded on all sides by chemical engineers and without a professional society of their own, at times feared they were losing their identity.

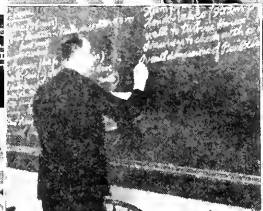

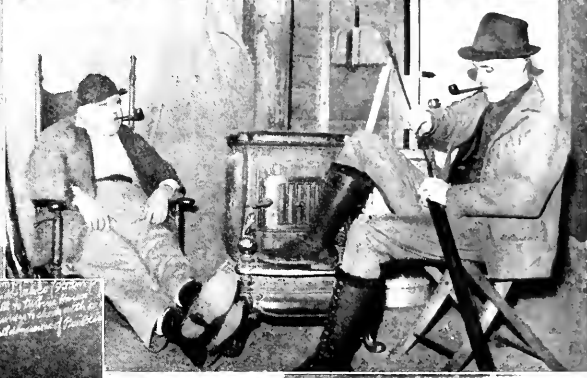

With the establishment of the Northeastern University Chemical Society this year, made possible by the enlarging of the Department of Chemistry and the increased enrollment of chemistry majors, this small group, now seniors, felt themselves vindicated.

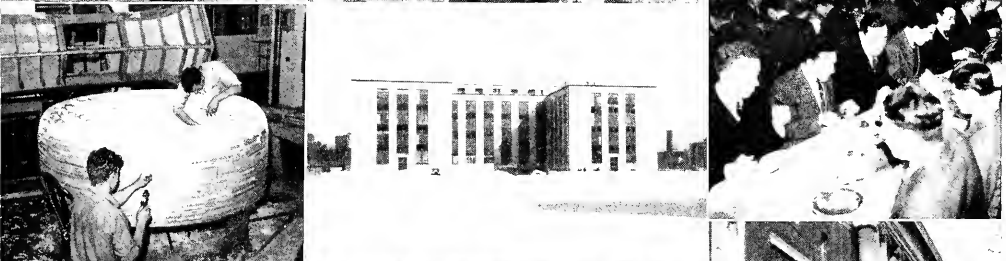

The meetings of the society throughout the year give the members an opportunity to hear problems in pure chemistry discussed by guest speakers. The ultimate aim of the society, which attracted about seventy members in its first year, is affiliation with the American Chemical Society. This aim will probably be attained in the next year or two, according to Prof. Arthur A. Vernon, adviser.

Traditions take time. This page launches what, perhaps, in the distant future will be a Cauldron tradition. The Cauldron has selected Cornelius M. Sullivan, '41, football captain and track star, as the typical Northeastern athlete in active varsity competition. A real team man, with spirit to spare, thoroughly liked by his classmates, "Connie" retires this year from the field of sports.

As a representative of the group of lettermen herein listed, Connie is presented leaning easily on the "Northeastern Fence," a symbol of those young men who have brought a greater honor to Northeastern.

UNDERGRADUATE LETTER MEN

Sad appears the plight of that athletic oddity unique to Northeastern — the former star who still is a student, still is eligible for most extra-curricula activities, but no longer is permitted to represent the University in sports. For his freshman year he attracts attention because of his promise, for the next three years he fulfills that promise and becomes a well-publicized leader in collegiate activities, for his fifth year — what?

In that fifth year he appears just as frequently in the corridors, possesses just as much intelligence and common sense as he did twelve months before, but does he attract as much attention? Does he enjoy as much prestige? Does he automatically qualify as a forgotten man?

The negative answers to all three of these questions appear paradoxical because they apparently contradict each other. The fifth-year athlete definitely does not attract so much attention, definitely does not enjoy so much prestige, but just as definitely he is not a forgotten man. The point may be clarified by reference to outstanding athletic members of the Class of 1940.

Take James Joseph Connolly as the first and best example. James Joseph won widespread recognition as a high school baseball and football player. He added to his fame during his undergraduate years at Northeastern, captaining the football team and playing as a regular in both basketball and baseball. His huge chest provides a fitting background for the big red "N" that marks him as a varsity letter winner.

James Joseph's lot is quite contrary to that of Gilbert and Sullivan's famed policeman, for James Joseph is singularly happy as he completes his collegiate career without benefit of athletic competition. He no longer is an active participant, but he still is a major figure in college because he built his reputation so firmly. He lacks glamour to freshmen and sophomores, but he still is popular, still is a friend to those with whom he came in contact athletically.

Take the quiet, unassuming John Byrne, whose sensational hockey career made him one of the most publicized athletes in New England circles. Life is progressing for him now just as it progressed last year; he still rates as a grand hockey player, and as such he still commands admiration from his classmates.

Take Danny Miles, the track captain, who jumped higher than any other athlete in Northeastern history; Bill Little, the baseball captain, who led an extremely successful team last fall; Arnold Kaufman, the tiny guard who made big football opponents shiver. In fact, take any athlete whose name appears in the honor roll on the adjoining page.

Each one misses the actual competition, but none misses the applause. Athletic deeds live after college generations have died. The only difference here at Northeastern is that the former stars are on the scene for a year to see the legends develop.

"The spirit is willing and the flesh is not weak but such major items as a good passer, a good kicker, and an outstanding runner are missing."

Thus Will Cloney summed up the 1939 football situation in a pre-game writeup in the Alumnus. But what was merely a distressing situation to most students was a two-month headache to Coach Jimmy Dunn and staff, for malevolent gods continued to hurl misfortunes on Jim's sunny thatch so that by November the gold had a silvery tint.

For the students the 1939 season will be remembered primarily as the one in which the world's record for jinx holding was in permanent possession of the school at 360 Huntington Avenue. Jim Dunn must have had a premonition of the dark days to come when he sat with the 1938 team at the annual post-season banquet and realized that such stars as Jimmy Connolly, Stan Rogers, Arnie Kaufman, Bill Pomeroy, Foxy Flumere, Bill Little, and Baron Bierenbroodspot had donned the Red and Black jersey for the last time.

It was unfortunate that the Huskies opened the season with their strongest opponent. A star-studded, confident eleven from the wilds of Manchester was to inaugurate the turf-churning season at the Kent Street stadium. It was virtually the same team which a year before had shattered the Rose Bowl visions of a high-flying Boston College outfit by battering the Eagles to a scoreless deadlock in a swirling rainstorm at University Heights.

The 1939 St. Anselm team was no exception to the fast, tricky elevens Cleo O'Donnell had turned out in the past, and with leading small-college quarterback Ray McLean barking signals for the Hawks the outcome was inevitable. The Saints gave the Huskies a thorough rub-down, 36 to 7, but Ramblin' Ray was bottled up for the greater part of the afternoon and the Hawks' vaunted running attack was stopped cold. A rapid-fire aerial barrage by the Hawks paved the way for four touchdowns and set up a fifth.

Exactly eight minutes after the kickoff the Hawks scored their first touchdown with Charlie Jaworek snaring a McLean pass for the tally. Before the period had ended St. Anselm had scored two more touchdowns and the Husky side of the scoreboard still contained a lone cipher.

The Huskies rallied in the second period with Sonny Yetten, workhorse of the afternoon, sparking a 63 yard drive which placed the leather on the Saints' four yard stripe. On the next play Ducky Holmes made a circus catch of a Ken Harding pass to chalk up six points for the Dunmen, and Ronnie Tubbs arched the pigskin over the goal post for the conversion. After this scoring spree the Husky stands were silent for the greater part of the afternoon with Jimmy Dunn tasting his first bitter vetch of the season when Harding went out in the third period with a cracked collarbone. A Husky rally in the final period was cut short and Jack Caswell's interception of a pass was the lone gloom-speller of the closing moments of the game. The O'Donnellmen added another triple in the third period and at the final whistle the Red and Black were on the short end of a 36 to 7 score.

The next Saturday found the Red and Black eleven at Lewis Field, N. H., with vengeance in their hearts and pictures of Ramblin' Ray McLean in their minds. It was perhaps over-anxiousness which cost them the game, for despite a Husky tally the Wildcats capitalized on errors to score a brace of touchdowns and a field goal to give them a 15 to 6 victory. The Durhamites opened the festivities with a 46 yard advance in six plays sparked by Hall and Clark, "mighty mites" of the Blue and White, who ripped the Husky line to shreds. Hall slammed off tackle for the initial touchdown of the day and the Wildcats were out in front by a six point margin.

Late in the same period Jack Caswell raced around left end behind perfect blocking to drive 38 yards down the field before being brought down. A series of rushes by Ed Barry and Alec Struzzierio brought the ball to the N. H. five yard marker with "Struzzie" scoring on the next play. The try for point was wide and the score was deadlocked at six all at the start of the second quarter.

Horace Martin, substitute guard for New Hampshire, pulled the surprise play of the day when he place kicked a field goal from the twenty yard marker and the Cats clinched the game in the third frame when Gordon crashed over from the seven yard marker after reeling off 28 yards in the two preceding plays. Jim Jefferson and Captain Connie Sullivan joined Ken Harding on the injured list with the former suffering from two cracked ribs while Sully was hobbling around school the following Monday on a cane as a result of a wrenched ankle.

The Bates game, scheduled for the following Saturday, loomed darkly on the football horizon that blue Monday after the N. H. tilt. "Struzzie" joined the growing list of cripples, and this blow, coupled with the realization that this same Bates team had played a bang-up game against Harvard two weeks previously, did little to brighten Husky hopes of victory. The Bobcats expected little trouble in stopping the locals' attack as Dunn, a former Harlow aide, employed a similar ground offensive to that of the Harvard mentor.

A light drizzle and a raw wind swept Garcelon Field the following Saturday when Carl Johnson, acting-captain in place of injured Sullivan, led the Red and Black warriors out onto a muddy gridiron. A few minutes later the gloom of the sky was mirrored in the faces of the assembled Husky fans as Jim O'Sullivan kicked a 30 yard placement to give the Bobcats a three-point lead which was later to prove the margin of victory.

The Cats made it 9 to 0 in the third stanza when Johnson blocked Tubbs' kick and Plaisted pounced on the leather as it rolled over the goal line. Buccigross converted and the Garnet and Black were ten points ahead. Northeastern retaliated later in the same frame when Barry, playing inspired football, intercepted a pass on his own 25 and romped 50 yards down a muddy field without muddcleats. A Yetten to Colantonio pass clicked for 16 yards and two plays later Yetten whaled center for a score. Tubbs' kick was good and the score read 10 to 7 at the end of the third quarter.

The Duncmen threatened on three separate occasions in the final period opening up a desperate but futile passing attack in the last few minutes of play. Northeastern showed considerable improvement in this fray with both the offensive and defensive clicking. A week of hard work on pass defense had done wonders for the Husky aerial defense and the Cats completed but one pass out of eight attempted. The loss of Gerry De Napoli, who smashed his knee in this tilt, was one of the bitterest blows of the entire season, and the coaching staff had to solve the problem of finding a guard to fill the shoes of this veteran of three years of varsity ball.

Tufts was next on the list and as in former meetings between the two the fracas proved to be a spine-tingler with the Huskies playing their best game of the season. This marked the first time since 1935 that the Jumbos had faced the Huskies and they were anxious to wipe out the 6 to 6 tie chalked up on that occasion. As the Medford team had beaten a strong Williams team they entered the game heavy favorites. However, they were driven back a total of 69 yards in the first period but the Huskies failed to reach pay dirt. For three consecutive quarters the two teams battled for a score but neither side was able to penetrate the opponent's ten yard stripe.

In the final moments of the game 5000 assembled fans came to their feet with a roar when late substitute Jack Caswell snared a Harding pass and ran 45 yards before being nailed on the Tufts 25. Northeastern opened up on passes in the closing seconds but the attack stalled as the final whistle blew. Caswell's brief entrance was a costly one for the Ilion, N.

Y., track star suffered a sprained ankle necessitating his removal from the game. The final score: 0-0—paving the way for a rubber game next year. Both the line and the backfield played heads-up football with Harding and Barry sparking the Backs while Abend, Joe Howlett, and Dean Williams outstanding in the line.

The last Saturday in October will go down as a red letter day in Northeastern annals. For Connie Sullivan it goes down as the day he scored his only touchdown in eight years of gridiron warfare; for Northeastern graduates it will be remembered as the 21st annual Alumni Day; but for 4000 assembled fans at Huntington Field it will be remembered as the day a dazzling Ram eleven smashed a four year jinx by beating the Huskies 7 to 6 in a game which, true to the tradition of former N. U.-R. I. battles, was packed with 60 minutes of spectacular football.

Although the colorful Al McCoy-Frank Keaney feud had ended when the former Husky went to Colby, the Ram coach displayed his usual bag of tricks with a variety of unorthodox formations including a flanker which had the Husky line worried for the first few plays. Coach Dunn had a few tricks of his own, however, and the Huskies opened up a passing attack on the first play of the game which caught the Rams flatfooted.

The Husky attack stalled, however, and midway in the initial period Duke Abbruzzi nabbed a six yard pass from Warner Keaney and sideline-scrampered 37 yards down the turf for his eighth touchdown of the season. Keaney lived up to his reputation as dean of small-college converters by booting the oval between the uprights to give the Rams a 7 to 0 lead.

Northeastern's score came in the second quarter with Harding heaving a 15 yard pass to Sullivan for a score. The try for point failed and the Rams' one point lead looked bigger and bigger as the game progressed. The last minutes of the half were devoted to a running duel between Yetten and Abbruzzi with the latter being carried off the field in the last play of the period after being hit hard by Joe Beaton and Phil Sheridan.

In the third period the Huskies marched 58 yards to the Ram 30 yard stripe but on the next play Duff intercepted a Yetten pass and the Rams held on to the ball for the greater part of the frame. The last period turned out to be a kicking duel between Keaney and Harding with the latter twice kicking the oval from under the shadows of the Northeastern goal posts. The Huskies, reaching a new high in this tussle, outrushed and outpassed the Rams but a couple of muffed aerials cost them the game. That one point lead was sufficient to warrant a victory parade down in Kingston, R. I., that Saturday night and another hairline defeat was inscribed on the Husky books. Harding and Sullivan shared playing honors of the day but the line of Boyle, Howlett, Anderson, Abend, Williams, and Johnson come in for their share of laurels.

The first Saturday in November was "sophomore day" at Huntington Field for the Red and Black eleven with backs Ed Barry and Abe Winograd plus linemen Marc Boyle, Phil Sheridan, and Bill Callahan seeing action against the Springfield Gymnasts. And, when I say action, it's an understatement. Two Maroon and Gold jerseyed backs, Johnson and Grinnell, pulled about every spectacular play out of their respective helmets with Johnson pulling six hip weaving runs for a score in the first quarter and then adding his second with a 65 yard gallop through center. A try for point was good. Grinnell, not to be outdone, jived his way down to the Husky 23 yard stripe in the second frame and then smashed through Northeastern's forward wall to score standing up.

The Back Bay eleven scored in the second and last frames with Alec Struzzierio spinning a 16 yard pass to Ducky Holmes for the first six pointer and Ken Harding plunging over the line for the second tally. A Harding to Holmes pass was good for an additional point but the score at the end of the tilt gave the Gymnasts a 19-13 victory over the Huskies.

Mel Warshaw was the big gun in the Husky line while Holmes turned in the best game of his varsity career. Ken Harding again bore the brunt of the ball-toting burden while Struzzie carried off honors for defensive playing.

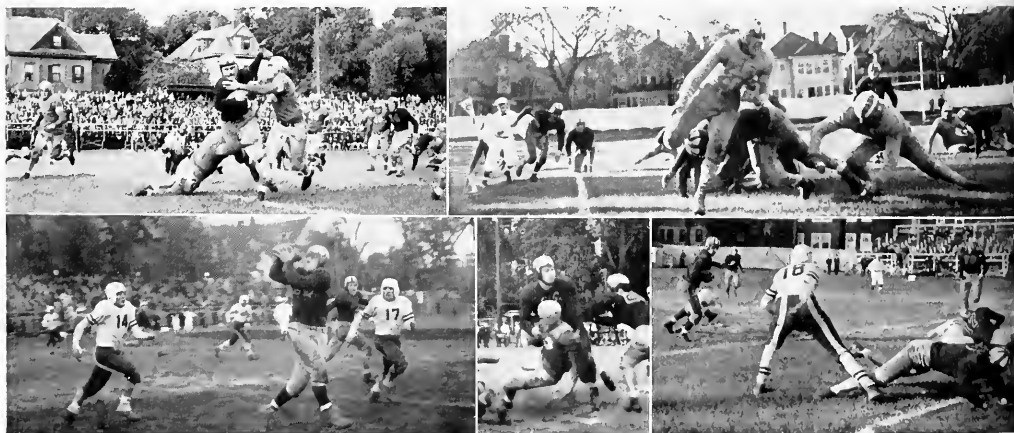

Armistice Day marked the cessation of N. U. grid hostilities and retirement day for eleven fourth-year men. The season's finale at Huntington Field with the Upsala Vikings rang down the curtain on the football careers of Captain Sullivan, Joe Howlett, Art Anderson, Ken Harding, Ray Yetten, Ducky Holmes, Alex Struzzierio, Joe Beaton and the injured Gerry Di Napoli and Bob Gurney both of whom had been sidelined for the greater part of the season with leg injuries.

The Vikings rolled up an early 20 to 0 lead which the Huskies vainly tried to overcome. Northeastern was on the short end of a 22 to 13 score at the final whistle. Bob Lennon was the individual star of the game as the East Orange frosh had the 3000 assembled fans in an uproar by his spectacular playing. Lennon scored two touchdowns and tossed the pass which resulted in a third, kicked two placements, and tossed eight passes of which five were completed.

The Huskies' attack got underway late in the second period with Struzzierio pouncing on a fumble on the Vikings' 15 yard stripe and in three plays the Red and Black chalked up six points as Ken Harding sped over the goal line. Ken kicked the point. In the third frame the Huskies threatened several times but it wasn't until the last quarter that the Dunmen reached paydirt again. This time it was Sonny Yetten who lugged the leather over after he and Ed Barry had sparked a 30 yard drive.

So there lies the story of the '39 season. From the standpoint of wins and losses the results were definitely on the red side of the ledger but from the standpoint of enjoyable ball games the season was a success.

Northeastern's hardluck varsity basketball team staggered through one of the toughest schedules in N. U. hoop history during the 1939-40 campaign. The Huskies salvaged only four wins out of 17 games, and none of these were with the consent of the opposition.

Harvard, Brown, Tufts, Rhode Island, and Worcester Polytech were just some of the court circuses on the agenda that almost prompted Coach Jimmy Dunn to settle the whole thing by signing non-aggression pacts with each of these potential powerhouses.

When Captain Bob Gurney, Lou Smith, Bob Toucey, Tom Gleason, Art Chechames, and Soph Al Pajonas reported for practice early in November, Coach Dunn breathed easier. In these men he had the most capable regular outfit in recent years. Gurney had been a leading point-getter in two previous years of varsity play. Smith had been first string since his sophomore year. Toucey, Gleason, and Chechames had two years of varsity experience while Pajonas had caused a mild sensation on the freshman team a semester before.

Opening the season the Huskies paid a neighborly visit on Coach Wes Fesler's Jawn Hahvahds. Supposed to be the weakest team to represent the Crimson in years, Captain Charley Lutz, Bud Finnegan, Ed Buckley, and company took just about five minutes of the first period to erase that supposition in summa cum laude fashion. After Tom Gleason had dropped a foul shot for the first Northeastern point of the year, the Cantab courtmen went out to an early lead over the nervous, unsure Dunmen and stood off a brilliant second half surge of the Huskies to win, 51-38. Pajonas, playing his first varsity game, sank 20 points. He collected most of these when N. U. put on the heat in the latter half of the contest in a vain attempt to catch the Crimson.

Less than a week later Captain Gurney and crew went to Medford to engage the strongest Tufts five in a decade. Unlike Harvard Captain Charley Tibbs and his Jumbos failed to disappoint pre-season prediction and took advantage of their superior power, 57-43. The lone consolation for the Huskies in this encounter was that Pajonas continued in his disregard of varsity opposition by scoring 14 points, two more than the Jumbos' top man, Tibbs.

The Husky hoop men opened their home season against Colby on December 16. The Pine Tree Staters outroughed and outscored their hosts, 40-23, in a sloppy contest.

Having lost three straight encounters Coach Dunn's charges met powerful Brown on the evening of December 18 at Providence. The Bears towered over the comparatively small Huskies. The N. U. dribblers were forced to play themselves off their feet to keep up with the smooth combination play of the Brunonians. A series of sensational shots from quarter-court by Pajonas kept the score even for the first half. Most of his two pointers came when he was covered, unable to pass, and forced to shoot off-balance.

In the second stanza the Dunnmen used sheer heart and nothing more to stave off the weaving, never-ceasing attack of the Bears. At the three-quarter mark the visitors could hold out no longer, and a flurry of baskets, three of them from the skilled hands of Jack Padden, gave the home team an eight point lead which proved to be the margin of victory, 66-58. Again Pajonas was high-scorer for the evening; this time he accounted for 30 of the Husky markers.

Following the Christmas vacation the Red and Black dropped its fifth straight to Connecticut, 61-38. Forwards Herb Peterson and Bob Donnelly collected two points less than the Husky total between them while Gurney and Pajonas led the meager N. U. offensive with eight points each.

With a visit to the Rhode Island howitzers next on the lineup Coach Dunn decided to shake up his outfit. In an effort to secure more scoring punch he sent Toucey, who had been playing the guard position since he came to Northeastern, to forward and brought Captain Gurney from the front line to the rear guard. Toucey had always been a high-scoring guard while Gurney's old facility for finding the basket had fallen off considerably.

Although the change did not produce a win against Rhody—and it was hardly expected to—Toucey garnered 18 points and Gurney's speed strengthened the Husky defense.

On January 13 Northeastern's first triumph came at home when Pajonas and his new running-mate, Toucey, put on a great exhibition to down Maine, 44-38. While these two were the main cogs in the scoring column with 16 and 14 points respectively, it was the fluent, fast passing of the entire team, the best floor work the Huskies had shown to date, that set up most of the tallying plays.

At their top game the Huskies set out confidently for Maine where they were to meet Colby, Maine, and Bates on successive nights starting January 18. Jumping to an early lead on the shooting of Pajonas the Red and Black avenged its previous defeat by Colby, 41-36. The Huskies led all the way and were threatened only in the closing minutes when Colby closed with a rush.

The N. U. five then went from Waterville to Orono and vented their wrath on the University of Maine. Pajonas contributed 33 points, 15 baskets and three fouls, to the Red and Black's 67-50 grand slam victory. For the greater part of this contest the Husky hardwood hurricanes were without the services of Captain Gurney. Bob fouled out early in the first period.

Cause for jubilation was shortlived as Bates put a damper on the glory of N. U.'s venture into Maine by edging the Husky quintet, 47-43. Pajonas again led his team in the counting column with 17 markers.

The Red and Black dipped again as Captain Al Werner and his Springfield Gymnasts disregarded Pajonas's score of points to stay 25 single tallies ahead of N. U. The home team was behind only in the opening minutes of play when the Huskies jumped to a three point lead.

The New Hampshire Wildcats found the Dunnmen way off form at Durham in the first game of a home and home series. High-scoring Pajonas netted only two points, as the Huskies went down to defeat, 53-37. Smith and Gleason made nine points each for the Huskies to head their team's scoring. Four nights later on February 7 Clark gave the travelling towners no better reception and trounced them, 70-32.

When New Hampshire played its return engagement with the Dunn squad, Gleason broke into the limelight to aid the Huskies in a 46-38 triumph over the Wildcats with 18 points. Pajonas, after having gone on a point strike in his last two games, found his eye again and gathered up 15 counters including six baskets of his patented one-hand variety.

Three defeats in a row closed the season for the N. U. basketeers. Connecticut played spider and the fly with the Huskies at Storrs on February 14. The visiting five played spectacular basketball in the first half and led at the close of the period, 25-22. Coming out for the second half the Connecticut quintet turned on a furious attack that gave them victory, 67-43.

Rhode Island returned N. U.'s early season visit on February 17. The Dunnmen went out at the opening whistle to return the Rams' misdirected hospitality and played wide open basketball. The game developed into an old-fashioned scoring duel. In the leading roles were Stutz Modzelewski for Rhode Island and Pajonas for Northeastern. Three times the Rams went ahead of the Huskies and three times the N. U. five came back to tie the score. A late second half spurt put the Rams far ahead of the home team, and the game ended with the Red and Black striving vainly to overcome R. I.'s lead. The final score was 77-63. Modzelewski accounted for 34 of his team's points, Fred Conley got 15, and Bill Rutledge ran up a total of 17. Pajonas was Northeastern's high man with 28 counters.

Worcester Polytech was the last, and by no means the easiest, opponent on the Husky schedule. Composed mostly of veterans, the visitors had almost the same team that had lost only three games a season ago and each of these by only one point. In addition Coach Pete Bigler's outfit had played nine games previous to the Northeastern encounter and had won them all. With Johnny Wells, 6'4" center of the visitors, leading the attack the Worcester aggregation gave the Huskies no chance and won out, 56-46. Wells led Tech in scoring with 21 points while Pajonas topped Northeastern with 18.

Introducing—Northeastern's 1939-'40 varsity hockey team. To get a picture of this team imagine yourself stepping into the Arena locker rooms almost any morning last winter at 6:30 A.M. The practice session is just about to begin and the boys are hurrying to get on the ice.

Stand at the entrance to the overcrowded room, and look around you. You'll recognize some of these men, because they are veterans who have been with the club two or three years. The rest will be pointed out to you shortly.

Watch out. You'll get bowled over by some of these late comers. That fellow who just gave you the hip check is Gerry Griffin. He's the captain of this year's outfit, and a darned good one, too. He doesn't expect his mates to do anything he can't do, so as an example he does just about everything. He's a true Irishman—a fighter, rough and tough as they come, but at the same time he has plenty of hockey savvy. Watch him when the squad starts scrimmaging. He seldom, if ever, makes an error of omission on the defence. He weighs only 160, but he can hand out body checks with the best in the league. Gerry's no slouch on the offence, either. He leads all the power plays, and his shot is feared by all the goalies who come up against him.

Any of the players caught loafing have to answer to him, and many would rather have a three-hour exam than have to account for themselves to Gerry. In fact he was picked as captain of the league All-star team because of his ability to get the most out of his team.

There's Gerry Bracken, that tall, slim fellow over in the corner talking to the coach. He's the first one on the ice every morning. Gerry would rather play hockey than eat. When he discovered early this winter that all one has to do to be a hockey player is score a few goals he received a promotion to the first line and stuck to it. "Brack" is one of the hardest workers on the squad. Stamina is his middle name. He's the kind of a player who doesn't believe in waste motion. The game is a science to him. If you don't think so just watch him bump the opposing forwards in the center zone and get away with it. Gerry's at his best on the receiving end of a pass, cutting down his right wing boards and in on the goal, or checking back to cut down a fast rush of his rivals.

Who's the one who just slipped that coughdrop in his mouth? That's Johnny Eckert, the left wing on the second line. He's another work horse who can skate equally well both ways. He's the flash on that second line. If something looks impossible, then Johnny tries it. His motto is "get near that net somehow, whether you have to go through, over, around, or under." When he's well fortified with his inevitable coughdrops Johnny is one of the fastest skaters on the team.

There's another member of the second line over there in the corner; the fellow who isn't saving much. That's George Ross. He looks business-like and is just the same way on the ice. George gave the scoring punch to the second wave, being a good play-maker and exceptionally tricky around the nets. He's perhaps the fastest man on the squad. George never seems upset over any bad break, but plugs along and makes the breaks come to him—the real team player.

The third member of the line is here getting his stick taped. Bill Peppard. "Pep" is a straight-away player—not very big, but dangerous to anyone who gets in his way. He's about the best defensive wing Coach Gallagher has this year. Once he sticks himself on his man, it's almost impossible to shake him off. Bill is a brainy player who sees things coming before they happen—a qualification of any good play-maker.

Your education is not complete until you meet Leo Lennon, the bespectacled, happy-go-lucky member of the team. Don't let his glasses fool you, though. He's very capable of handling himself in any competition. Leo is the stylist of the squad—a smooth, fast skater. He's another one of the boys who is clever around the opponent's net, with a hard shot and plenty of hockey knowledge.

That one over there combing his hair before he puts on his helmet is Ray Yetten, defenseman deluxe. A flashy player, he likes nothing better than to lead rushes from his backline post. "Sonny" is rugged, too, and can hand out his share of the checks.

Step aside and let this little fellow through. He's the one who has been tossing those jokes around the room for the last ten minutes. The smallest player on the squad, yet one of the hardest workers. You guessed it—Alan McCarthy, "Mac" can give out everything he takes, and more. You can bet he has to take plenty because of his size, yet he eats up the rough stuff. Combine that with brains and you have a player who is an asset to any squad.

Last, but by no means least, is Art O'Connor, who shares this year's net-minding duties with sophomore Don Hansis. Art has the makings of a fine goalie, but he reported for duty for the first time this year. Despite his lack of experience he can give a good exhibition in the strings.

That includes all the ones who are through this year. Now for a quick look at those who will be back next year. You can't miss that quiet, serious-looking fellow coming our way. He's Johnny Chipman, the outstanding scorer of the team. "Chippie" has about everything a good hockey player needs—speed, agility, brains, a fine shot, and he's a clever stick handler, too. Chip finished second in New England scoring last year and sixth this year.

Then there's Fred Cusick, Chipman's left wing on the first line. Fred used to be a defenseman but was shifted to a forward position because of his ability to score. He's big and fast, and can set up plays like a veteran. Chipman, Cusick, and Bracken make a smooth passing trio with scoring power good enough for anyone's team.

Lou Cunningham must come in for his share of the introductions. He's Griffin's partner on the points. One of the biggest players on the squad and just as anxious for body contact as Griffin, Lou is a typical defenseman. Together the two form about the best defense pair in the league. Lou can skate well and he clears from in front of the nets with the accuracy of a new Garand rifle.

For sophomore material Gallagher has forward Dean Morrison, defenseman "Butch" Del Grosso, and goalie Don Hansis. Each is giving a good account of himself this year. Under Gallagher's tutelage and with a bit more experience any one of the trio can go places next season.

Leaving the locker room to these early birds, we jump back to the present and give the season and the games played a once-over. Gallagher's sextet, before the winter was very old, became known for its precision passwork and its knowledge of the finer points of the game. Flashy at times and always consistent, the Husky puckchasers finished fourth in the New England Intercollegiate Hockey League, the competition being the toughest since the inception of the loop four years ago.

Against New Hampshire the puckmen fared well, taking the two game series 4 to 3 and 4 to 2. The first game, the year's opener, gave notice of what was to be expected in further Husky contests. Griffin and Cunningham on defense shattered the Stater's rushes time and again by vicious body checks, while Johnny Chipman had his hand in all four of the Red and Black goals, scoring three and assisting in the other.

Boston College proved to be the biggest barrier in front of this year's Huskies. Due to the fact that the Heights team was in much better condition when the two teams met first, it waltzed to an 11 to 3 victory, after being held to a 2 goal tie during the first period. The second tilt was much closer and one of the fastest on Arena ice during the winter. Although the Gallaghermen were on the small end of a 5 to 2 score when the final whistle blew, N. U. fans went away satisfied that they had seen a hockey game. B. C. scored four times in the first period, but goalie Hansis, who started the second period, held the Eagles to one goal while giving a remarkable net-minding exhibition.

After losing the first Bowdoin game in overtime, the Husky skaters came back strong to hand the Polar Bears a stinging 9 to 4 defeat. Cusick, from his left wing post, tallied five times, in an individual performance which rivalled all others for top honors of the year.

Colby also succeeded in getting a split of its two-game series. The first, in Maine, was won in overtime on a goal by Ed Barry after Chipman had soloed to tie the score at three-all in the closing minutes of the third period. In Boston, the Mules proved to be a little bit tougher and came out the victors, 9 to 7, in a wild and woolly battle. Ross was the outstanding scorer for the Huskies in this tilt with one goal and two assists to his credit.

Ross also gave a good account of himself by scoring twice in the 3 to 0 win over Middlebury. This was the Huskies' only shut-out of the year, with O'Connor and Hansis getting in on the fun.

A better than usual and rugged six from Technology dropped two tilts to the Huskies. The second game, a knock-down, dragout affair, was the better of the two with the Gallaghermen coming through in the closing minutes to score three times and win 6 to 4.

At the banquet held at the end of the year Johnny Chipman, who ended up in sixth place in New England scoring this year, was elected to captain next year's club. The manager-ship went to Howie Munday, who succeeded Sid Siegal.

As usual the manager took the brunt of all the abuse during the year and will continue to do so in the next hockey season, so it is only deserving that we should end with their names—the unsung heroes of those early morning sessions.

HAROLD B. MORRIS

Coach Gerry Tatton's 1940 varsity track team finished its indoor season with three victories in five dual meets while none of its individual stars fared very well in invitation meets. In true Northeastern track tradition this year's edition of board pounders was fortified in each event. But, having victimized Bates, Brown, and Mass. State the Husky aggregation found Tufts and Maine too strong.

To open the season the tracksters packed their short spikes and journeyed to Lewiston to meet Bates on January 20. With Jake Wiren, diminutive weightman, taking two firsts and a third N.U. romped over Bates, 62 $\frac{2}{3}$ to 45 $\frac{1}{2}$. In all the Tattonites topped eight events. After Captain Frank Mascianica and Bill MacDonough finished one-two in the 600 the meet was definitely clinched for the Red and Black. Wiren's two wins came in the 35 pound weight event, which he clinched with a heave of 47 feet 10 inches, and the broad-jump which he took with a leap of 20 feet five inches. Mike Prohodsky, star soph distance man, won the mile by sheer dint of stamina. Having set too fast a pace in the early stages of the race Prohodsky was forced to grind the last lap to win.

A week later the N.U. forces were invited to take part in the Prout Games at the Boston Garden. A two-mile varsity relay team of Johnny Fitzpatrick, Mike Prohodsky, Paul Durup, and Sam Drevitch could do no better than finish third to Boston College and Yale. The Huskies were trailed by Connecticut University.

On February 10 the Huskies were again in the Boston Garden. This time they were taking part in the Boston Athletic Association. Individual competitors, Jack Caswell and Fred Corcoran, failed to qualify in the dash. In the varsity one mile relay Northeastern was entered against Boston University and the University of Maine. At the starting gun Harris of B.U. jumped to a short lead over Ducky Holmes, N.U.'s lead-off man, while Conti of Maine trailed.

Bill MacDonough who, after having been an in-and-outer for two seasons, came into his own this year and ran the best pre-anchor leg of the night. He blistered around the track, passing Byron on the first turn. He handed anchorman, Captain Frank Mascianica a ten yard lead. Big Frank, under no pressure, stretched his lengthy stride to win handily by a 30 yard margin over Jones of B.U.

Maine was third, 40 yards back. The time was 3 minutes 31.8 seconds.

Cousens gym was the scene of the Huskies first dual meet defeat on February 20. They fell before the Tufts trackers, 52-29. With such stellar performers as Walter Hall and Ed Dugger on the Jumbos representing the Medford outfit in two and three events, the Huskies read the handwriting on the wall before they started the first event. This combine netted a total of four firsts and a second. Northeastern's only high spot in the meet was a single first taken by husky Jake Wiren. Jake heaved the shot 46 feet 3¾ inches to establish a new record at the Medford cage.

Where finesse and grace take precedence over speed Laurie Grant of Tufts and Art Field of Northeastern placed the greatest emphasis on grace by refusing to beat each other in the high jump and tying in the high jump at 5 feet 9 inches.

Walter Hall, former Boston College hurdles star, who transferred to Tufts, displayed his versatility by a new record for the 600 yard run as he jaunted the distance in 1.16 for another new cage record.

The Brown Bears played host to Northeastern's travelling kangaroo and steel kings on February 24 and lost a thriller to the Red and Black, 38-34. With Jake Wiren as N.U.'s only hope in the shot-put the meet was to be decided on this, the last event. Each team needed a first to win the meet. Jake's main worry was powerful Tuss McLaughry, Jr., famous blocking quarter of Brown's gridiron machine. Wiren rose to the occasion when he got off a magnificent heave of 46 feet 8¾ inches which McLaughry could not meet. The distance was a full five inches longer than his toss at Tufts which set a new cage record.

Finding that Kenny Clapp was not entered in the meet was enough to assure dapper Jack Caswell of a first in the 40 yard dash.

Ducky Holmes' victory in the 300 and Mike Prohodsky's triumph in the mile were the other Northeastern highlights in the meet.

Captain Frank Mascianica was the only member of the varsity to be sent to the I.C. 4 A's to compete for the national championships in New York. Frank failed to qualify in the first heat of the 600 trials.

Not included on the indoor schedule the Huskies had an engagement with Mass. State for an outdoor meet on March 6. Inclement weather forced the rivals to seek the hospitality of Tufts, and the meet was held in the Cousens gym. Apparently the drubbing the Huskies had received in this same gym several weeks before still weighed heavily on the minds of the Tattonites for they took out their vengeance on the Staters, 56½ to 15½.

With three wins in four dual meets to their credit the Huskies journeyed to Orono to encounter the University of Maine. This venture into the Pine Tree State was hardly as successful as the trackers opening meet with Bates. The Maine athletes downed the Back Bay crew, 62⅓ to 54⅓. Although his team was not victorious, Northeastern's track Gloryiana, Arky Shanker, finished his indoor career in championship style as he established a new Maine record in the 70 yard low hurdles, won the broad jump, and placed second in the high hurdles.

Shanker covered the low hurdles distance in 8.1 seconds, a tenth of a second better than the previous mark held by Ray Henderson, former N.U. track great, and Johnny Gowell of Maine.

Mike Prohodsky, who bids fair to become one of the greatest distance runners in N.U. track history, had another field day as he took the two mile event. He lapped the field to win in 10 minutes 1⅓/10 seconds while Colby Kelly of Northeastern finished second.

Maine's Stan Johnson copped himself some laurels when he flung the 35 pound hammer 58 feet 2⅝ inches to establish a new collegiate record.

Bill MacDonough duplicated his meritorious relay leg at the B.A.A. games by nearly setting up a new meet record in the 600 when he breezed through the middle distance event in 1 minute 14.8 seconds.

March has its winds, April its showers and September its—cross country teams. The turnout for the 1939 harrier team must have been gratifying to Coach Gerry Tatton, for along with the veteran quartet of Arky Shanker, Eb Landsman, Dave Lockerby, and Sam Drevitch were sophomores Paul Durup, Don Linnell, Dick Carpenter, and Johnny Campbell, all ex-members of the '38 frosh team which had set up such an enviable record.

The first meet with Connecticut was a disastrous beginning for the Huskies as the Blue and White rolled up a 21 to 35 win despite the fine running of Drevitch and Carpenter. Robbins of the visitors led the pack over the Franklin Park course to break the tape 300 yards ahead of Drevitch. Wheaton and Harold of the Nutmeggers finished in third and fourth places respectively with fifth place going to Carpenter. Connecticut snared sixth and seventh places to clinch the meet as Campbell, Lockerby, and Durup garnered the next three spots.

The Huskies broke into the win column the following week as the hill-and-dalers repeated their '38 triumph over the Maroon and White of Mass. State with the final tally reading 24 to 31. Captain-elect Lockerby, running the last race of his cross country career, sped over the four mile course at Amherst in 23:20, crossing the finish line in a tie for first with Dick Carpenter. Captain Chet Putney and Bill Kennedy of the Staters were deadlocked in third place, but the Husky trio of Drevitch, Campbell, and Durup sewed up the meet, winning 5th, 7th, and 9th places respectively.

At Franklin Park on the following Saturday the Tattonites bowed to Bates 25 to 31 although Carpenter set a record of 22 minutes 12¹/₅ seconds for the course and Drevitch finished second. At that point it seemed as if a Husky win was inevitable but the Bobcats garnered the next five places and victory as well.

Rhode Island handed Northeastern its third loss of the season the following Saturday as the Rams sped over their familiar Kingston course to win the meet with a perfect score of 15 to 47. This was the last dual meet scheduled.

The Huskies met Tufts and Tech in the annual triangular affair at Franklin Park.

The Northeastern season wound up with the New England meet in which the Huskies copped ninth place which was no surprise to anybody considering the calibre of the competition.

It was in '39 that Northeastern University established an offensive baseball average of .303, which was never reached before by any Red and Black aggregation in the great American pastime. To make this more significant, the Dartmouth College nine, which led the Ivy league in batting, hit for .277.

Surprisingly enough this Gallagher-coached outfit had only four seniors: Captain Bill Little, "Foxy" Flumere, Jim Connolly, and Garnet Gibson. The last mentioned completed his first and only year in varsity baseball.

"There's nothing much I can say about this quartet that you don't know already," stated the varsity mentor when asked to comment on the departure of these seniors.

"Bill Little was a steady, consistent ball player having finished the season with a .400 average. I'll admit I was slightly disturbed when he reported with a sore right wing, which necessitated my shifting him to the outfield, but once the arm healed, Bill went back to his regular shortstop position, which he filled very nicely."

"Flumere," reminisced the ex N. U. athlete, "was ousted from his second base post by a bad cold but, after he returned to duty, I shifted him to the first base spot." The "Fox" finished the season just below the .350 marker which was not bad considering his late start.

"Jim Connolly and carrot-headed Garnet Gibson were my battery men and both worked together nicely. Connolly had been first string catcher since his sophomore year, while Gibson had played only in his frosh year."

Connolly completed the season with an average just below the .300, while the pill-tossing Gibson was by far the leading twirler for the Huskies, defeating Conn. State, New Hampshire, Colby, and Boston College, among others.

Lending a bit of succor to Bill and the trio were the '40 co-captains, Sammy Swardlick and Alex Struzziero. Sammy played both the double "s" position and third base, while his pal covered both infield and outfield posts. Both men hit well over .300.

Syl Simon, Joe Beaton, Ray Yetten, Ed Lovequist, Ken Harding, Charlie Foster, Dave Gerry, and Ed Colt also helped the cause. Colt led the team in batting with an average of .432, while all the boys, not excluding twirlers Foster, Gerry, and Harding, hit the pill for a sizeable average.

Now that we've got the personalities out of the way, let's shoot back to that time in the season when the N. U. ball club won seven of its last eight games.

It all started when Gibson beat Conn. State on five hits, five to four. For the first time since the start of the season, a new infield was carefully installed. Swardlick went to third, Captain Little went to Sammy's former spot, shortstop Beaton went to second via the third base post, and Flumere took first in place of Lovequist.

It was this new infield that pulled one of the sweetest double plays on record, during the Clark game. It went like this: the bases were loaded with no outs when Swardlick smothered a grounder and whipped it to Beaton. Joe flipped the ball to Flumere, who snapped it to Connolly. After the double play was made, the runner on third decided to leg it for home. Connolly waited for the Fox's peg, caught the apple, and politely tagged the runner.

Northeastern won this game over Clark, 15 to 3, as Captain Little starred with three hits and a couple of spectacular plays. Beaton batted for 1.000 and everybody was happy.

The Crimson of Harvard was too much for the boys in their next encounter and they lost by a six to four score. This defeat, however, did not stop the Gallaghermen. They hit the open road for Maine one bright Thursday afternoon to engage the Colby and Maine baseball clubs on successive days. They beat Colby eight to seven. Lovequist's pinch hit single and a two-run single by Foster settled the conflict.

At Maine the story was a little different but the Huskies won six to five behind the nine hit twirling of Dave Gerry. N. U. led until the seventh when the Pine Tree staters tied the score at five all. In the ninth, however, Colt singled, stole second, went to third on a sacrifice, and scored the clincher on an infield tap.

In this same game, little Struzziero had a great time with the umpire. In the fifth inning he walked to the plate and waited. When he was called out on strikes on dubious pitches, "Struzzi" was furious. The ump threatened to throw him out of the game when he became too vociferous so Alex gave ground.

"Struzzi" carried his ire into the N. H. tussle in which he scored twice and helped defeat the Wildcats by a 5 to 2 score. Gibson gave a good demonstration in the box, allowing only six scattered hits. His teammates won the ball game with three hits.

After this almost hitless display of batting strength, the boys traveled back to the city with fire in their hearts. Their next victim was Tufts College. This game went thirteen innings but the Gallaghermen came out of a nine to six score.

N. U. was trailing going into the ninth, six to five. Colt walked, went to second on a sacrifice, reached third and scored on an in-field error. That tied the score and in the thirteenth the Red and Black clinched the ballgame when Harding, who had relieved Gerry in the box, drove in the winning runs.

After taking the Jumbos, the Huskies went after the Eagles of B. C. in the final game of the season. Gibson pitched the club to a five to three victory allowing thirteen scattered hits.

Foxy Flumere played the greatest game of his entire career, slapping out a four for four average, while driving in most of the runs. There were plenty of fielding gems. Swardlick's dive into the atmosphere to pull down a labeled drive was a standout. Colt climbed the left field fence to haul down a home run drive. Captain Little raced for the locker room, Flumere went for his jacket, Connolly kissed the sod a tearful farewell, Gibson kept the winning pill, and the managers picked up the bats. It was the end of the game and the season.

Coach Herb Gallagher

In all this writing about the players and their deeds, through oversight on my part, I've overlooked a few of the boys; namely, Coach Herb Gallagher and Paul Levenson, senior manager.

You all know about the young mentor's capabilities, but little has been said about Levenson. Paul was the boy who made sure that all the players were on the bus or train. It was he who hit fungoes in batting practice and spent a great deal of his time on the bench keeping the box scores in good order. It was he who passed out those refreshing packages of gum to his "charges." Unheralded and unsung he did an excellent job.

So seniors, when the years roll by and your undergraduate days at N. U. become just a memory, in relating tales of those by-gone days, remember Gallagher's Gunners!

NORTHEASTERN UNIVERSITY

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

Offers a broad program of college subjects serving as a foundation for the understanding of modern culture, social relations, and technical achievement. Students may concentrate in any of the following fields: Biology, Chemistry, Economics-Sociology, English (including an option in Journalism), and Mathematics-Physics. Varied opportunities available for vocational specialization. Degree: Bachelor of Science or Bachelor of Arts.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

Offers curricula in Civil, Mechanical (with Diesel, Air-Conditioning, and Aeronautical options), Electrical, Chemical, Industrial Engineering, and Engineering Administration. Classroom study is supplemented by experiment and research in well-equipped laboratories. Degree: Bachelor of Science in the professional field of specialization.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Offers six curricula: Accounting, Banking and Finance, Marketing and Advertising, Industrial Administration, Journalism, and Public Administration. Each curriculum represents in itself a broad survey of business technique, differing from the others chiefly in emphasis. Degree: Bachelor of Science in Business Administration.

SCHOOL OF LAW

Offers day and evening undergraduate programs admitting those who present a minimum of two years of college work, each program leading to the degree of Bachelor of Laws. Also graduate program in the evening leading to the degree of Master of Laws. Co-educational.

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Offers curricula through evening classes in Accounting, Management—with Industrial and Merchandising majors, Law and Business Management and Engineering and Business leading to the degree of Bachelor of Business Administration in specified fields or the Bachelor of Commercial Science in Law and Business Management. Preparation for C. P. A. Examinations. Shorter programs may be arranged. Co-educational.

EVENING COURSES OF THE COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

Offers a three-year evening program equivalent in hours to one-half of the requirement for the A. B. or B. S. degree. Provides general education and preparation for admission to the School of Law. Associate in Arts title conferred. Co-educational.

The Colleges of Liberal Arts, Engineering, and Business Administration offer day programs for men only and are conducted on the co-operative plan. After the freshman year students may alternate their periods of study with periods of work in the employ of business or industrial concerns at ten-week intervals. Under this plan they gain valuable experience and earn a large part of their college expenses.

In addition to the above schools the University has affiliated with it and conducts: the Lincoln Technical Institute offering, through evening classes, courses of college grade in various fields of engineering leading to the title of Associate in Engineering; and the Lincoln Preparatory School, an accredited evening school preparing for college entrance and offering other standard high school programs.
